| Effective Date: 1/2004 | Revision Date(s): 3/06, 12/06, 9/07, 6/14, 10/16, 4/19, 1/19/20, 12/22, 2/23 |

I. PURPOSE

The Elizabeth Seton Children’s Center (the “Children’s Center”) is committed to complying with the requirements of Section 6032 of the Federal Deficit Reduction Act of 2005, and preventing and detecting any fraud, waste, or abuse related to federal health care programs (e.g., Medicaid). To this end, the Children’s Center maintains a Compliance and Ethics Program and strives to educate affected individuals¹ on fraud and abuse laws, including the importance of submitting accurate claims and reports to the Federal and State governments. The Children’s Center has established the below written policies and procedures to provide affected individuals with information regarding: (1) the Federal False Claims Act, the New York State False Claims Act and other applicable Federal and New York State civil and criminal laws regarding false claims; (2) the right to be protected as a whistleblower; and (3) the steps the Children’s Center’s has implemented to prevent and detect fraud, waste and abuse.

II. POLICY

To assist the Children’s Center in meeting its legal and ethical obligations, any affected individual who reasonably suspects or is aware of the preparation or submission of a false claim or report or any other potential fraud, waste, or abuse related to a Federal health care program is required to report such information to his/her supervisor or the Corporate Compliance Officer. Any affected individual who reports such information will have the right and opportunity to do so anonymously and will be protected against retaliation and intimidation for coming forward with such information both under our internal compliance policies and procedures and Federal and State law. If any affected individual intentionally and maliciously makes a false report or falsely accuses someone of filing a false claim, in violation of Federal law, State law, or the Children’s Center’s policies, the Children’s Center retains the right to take appropriate action against that individual.

The Children’s Center is committed to investigating any suspicions of fraud, waste, or abuse promptly and thoroughly and requires all affected individuals to assist in such investigations. If any affected individual believes that the Children’s Center is not responding to his or her report within a reasonable period of time, the affected individual should bring these concerns about the Children’s Center’s perceived inaction to the Corporate Compliance Officer. Failure to report and disclose or assist in an investigation of fraud and abuse is a breach of the affected individual’s obligations to the

POLICY AND PROCEDURE

(G) knowingly makes, uses, or causes to be made or used, a false record or statement material to an obligation to pay or transmit money or property to the Government, or knowingly conceals or knowingly and improperly avoids or decreases an obligation to pay or transmit money or property to the Government, is liable to the United States Government for a civil penalty of not less than $5,000 and not more than $10,000, as adjusted by the Federal Civil Penalties Inflation Adjustment Act of 1990 (28 U.S.C. 2461), plus 3 times the amount of damages which the Government sustains because of the act of that person.²

(2) REDUCED DAMAGES. — If the court finds that—

(A) the person committing the violation of this subsection furnished officials of the United States responsible for investigating false claims violations with all information known to such person about the violation within 30 days after the date on which the defendant first obtained the information;

(B) such person fully cooperated with any Government investigation of such violation; and

(C) at the time such person furnished the United States with the information about the violation, no criminal prosecution, civil action, or administrative action had commenced under this title with respect to such violation, and the person did not have actual knowledge of the existence of an investigation into such violation, the court may assess not less than 2 times the amount of damages which the Government sustains because of the act of that person.

(3) COSTS OF CIVIL ACTIONS. — A person violating this subsection shall also be liable to the United States Government for the costs of a civil action brought to recover any such penalty or damages.

b. DEFINITIONS. For purpose of this section—

(1) The terms “knowing” and “knowingly”

(A) mean that a person, with respect to information

(i) has actual acknowledge of the information;

(ii) acts in deliberate ignorance of the truth or falsity of the information;

(iii) acts in reckless disregard of the truth or falsity of the information

² Although the statutory provisions of the Federal False Claims Act authorizes a range of penalties of from between $5,000 and $10,000, those amounts have been adjusted for inflation and increased by regulation to not less than $13,508 and not more than $27,018 for penalties assessed after January 30, 2023, whose associated violations occurred after November 2, 2015. See 28 C.F.R. §85.5.

ELIZABETH SETON CHILDREN'S CENTER

POLICY AND PROCEDURE

- (B) require no proof of specific intent to defraud
- (2) the term "claim" —
 - (A) means any request or demand, whether under a contract or otherwise, for money or property and whether or not the United States has title to the money or property, that
 - (i) is presented to an officer, employee, or agent of the United States;
 - (ii) is made to a contractor, grantee, or other recipient, if the money or property is to be spent or used on the Government's behalf or to advance a Government program or interest, and if the United States Government—
 - (I) provides or has provided any portion of the money or property requested or demanded; or
 - (II) will reimburse such contractor, grantee, or other recipient for any portion of the money or property which is requested or demanded;
 - (B) does not include requests or demands for money or property that the Government has paid to an individual as compensation for Federal employment or as an income subsidy with no restrictions on the individual's use of the money or property;
- (3) the term "obligation" means an established duty, whether or not fixed, arising from an express or implied contractual, grantor-grantee, or licensor-licensee relationship, from a fee-based or similar relationship, from statute or regulation, or from the retention of any overpayment.
- (4) the term "material" means having a natural tendency to influence, or be capable of influencing to influence, or be capable of influencing, the payment or receipt of money or property.
- c. EXEMPTION FROM DISCLOSURE. — Any information furnished pursuant to subsection (a)(2) shall be exempt from disclosure under section 552 of title 5.
- d. EXCLUSION. — this section does not apply to claims, records, or statements made under the Internal Revenue Code of 1986.

While the False Claims Act imposes liability only when the claimant acts "knowingly," it does not require that the person submitting the claim have actual knowledge that the claim is false. A person, who acts in reckless disregard or in deliberate ignorance of the truth or falsity of the information, also can be found liable under the Act. 31 U.S.C. 3729(b).

In sum, the False Claims Act imposes liability on any person who submits a claim to the federal government, or submits a claim to entities administering government funds that he or she knows (or should know) is false. An example may be a physician who submits a bill to Medicare for medical services she knows she has not provided. The False Claims Act also imposes liability on an individual who may knowingly submit a false record in order to obtain payment from the government.

ELIZABETH SETON CHILDREN'S CENTER

POLICY AND PROCEDURE

An example of this may include a government contractor who submits records that he knows (or should know) are false and that indicate compliance with certain contractual or regulatory requirements. The third area of liability includes those instances in which someone may obtain money from the federal government to which he may not be entitled, and then uses false statements or records in order to retain the money. An example of this so-called “reverse false claim” may include a hospital which obtains interim payments from Medicare or Medicaid throughout the year, and then knowingly files a false cost report at the end of the year in order to avoid making a refund to the Medicare or Medicaid program.

In addition to its substantive provisions, the FCA provides that private parties may bring an action on behalf of the United States. 31 U.S.C. 3730 (b). These private parties, known as “qui tam relators,” may share in a percentage of the proceeds from an FCA action or settlement.

Section 3730(d)(1) of the FCA provides, with some exceptions, that a qui tam relator, when the Government has intervened in the lawsuit, shall receive at least 15 percent but not more than 25 percent of the proceeds of the FCA action depending upon the extent to which the relator substantially contributed to the prosecution of the action. When the Government does not intervene, section 3730(d)(2) provides that the relator shall receive an amount that the court decides is reasonable and shall be not less than 25 percent and not more than 30 percent

B. ADMINISTRATIVE REMEDIES FOR FALSE CLAIMS (31 USC Chapter 38. §§ 3801 – 3812)

This statute allows for administrative recoveries by federal agencies. If a person submits a claim that the person knows is false or contains false information, or omits material information, the agency receiving the claim may impose a penalty of up to $5,000 for each claim.³ The agency may also recover twice the amount of the claim.

Unlike the False Claims Act, a violation of this law occurs when a false claim is submitted rather than when it is paid. Also unlike the False Claims Act, the determination of whether a claim is false, and the imposition of fines and penalties is made by the administrative agency, not by prosecution in the federal court system.

II. NEW YORK STATE LAWS

New York State False Claim Laws fall under the jurisdiction of both New York’s civil and administrative laws as well as its criminal laws. Some apply to recipient false claims and some apply to provider false claims. The majority of these statutes are specific to healthcare or Medicaid. Yet some of the “common law” crimes apply to areas of interaction with the government and so are applicable to health care fraud and will be listed in this section.

³ Although the statutory provisions of the Program Fraud Civil Remedies Act authorizes a penalty up to $5,000, that amount has been adjusted for inflation and increased by regulation to not more than $13,508 for penalties assessed after January 30, 2023, whose associated violations occurred after November 2, 2015. See 28 C.F.R. §85.5.

ELIZABETH SETON CHILDREN'S CENTER

POLICY AND PROCEDURE

A. CIVIL AND ADMINISTRATIVE LAWS

1. New York False Claims Act (State Finance Law §§187-194)

The New York False Claims Act is similar to the Federal False Claims Act. It imposes penalties and fines upon individuals and entities who knowingly file false or fraudulent claims for payment from any state or local government, including health care programs such as Medicaid. It also has a provision regarding reverse false claims similar to the federal FCA such that a person or entity will be liable in those instances in which the person obtains money from a state or local government to which he may not be entitled, and then uses false statements or records in order to retain the money.

The penalty for filing a false claim is the same that may be imposed for a violation of the Federal FCA (including any adjustments for inflation) plus three times the amount of the damages which the state or local government sustains because of the act of that person. In addition, a person who violates this act is liable for costs, including attorneys' fees, of a civil action brought to recover any such penalty.

The Act allows private individuals to file lawsuits in state court, just as if they were state or local government parties, subject to various possible limitations imposed by the NYS Attorney General or a local government. If the suit eventually concludes with payments back to the government, the person who started the case can recover twenty-five to thirty percent of the proceeds if the government did not participate in the suit, or fifteen to twenty-five percent, if the government did participate in the suit.

2. Social Services Law, Section 145-b – False Statements

It is a violation to knowingly obtain or attempt to obtain payment for items or services furnished under any Social Services program, including Medicaid, by use of a false statement, deliberate concealment or other fraudulent scheme or device. The state or the local Social Services district may recover three times the amount incorrectly paid. In addition, the Department of Health may impose a civil penalty of up to ten thousand dollars per violation. If repeat violations occur within five years, a penalty of up to thirty thousand dollars per violation may be imposed if the repeat violations involve more serious violations of Medicaid rules, billing for services not rendered, or providing excessive services.

3. Social Services Law, Section 145-c – Sanctions

If any person applies for or receives public assistance, including Medicaid, by intentionally making a false or misleading statement, or intending to do so, the needs of the individual or that of his family shall not be taken into account for the purpose of determining his or her needs or that of his family for six months if a first offense, for twelve months if a second offense (or if benefits wrongfully received are at least one thousand dollars but not more than three thousand nine hundred dollars), for eighteen months if a third offense (or if benefits wrongfully received are in excess of three thousand nine hundred dollars), and five years for any subsequent occasion of any such offense.

III. WHISTLEBLOWER PROTECTIONS

A. Federal False Claims Act (31 U.S.C. §3730[h])

The Federal False Claims Act provides protection to qui tam relators (individuals who commence a False Claims action) who are discharged, demoted, suspended, threatened, harassed, or in any other manner discriminated against in the terms and conditions of their employment as a result of their furtherance of an action under the FCA. 31 U.S.C. 3730(h). Remedies include reinstatement with comparable seniority as the qui tam relator would have had but for the discrimination, two times the amount of any back pay, interest on any back pay, and compensation for any special damages sustained as a result of the discrimination, including litigation costs and reasonable attorneys' fees.

B. NY False Claim Act (State Finance Law §191)

The New York State False Claim Act also provides protection to qui tam relators (individuals who commence a False Claims action) who are discharged, demoted, suspended, threatened, harassed, or in any other manner discriminated against in the terms and conditions of their employment as a result of their furtherance of an action under the Act. Remedies include reinstatement with comparable seniority as the qui tam relator would have had but for the discrimination, two times the amount of any back pay, interest on any back pay, and compensation for any special damages sustained as a result of the discrimination, including litigation costs and reasonable attorneys' fees

C. New York Labor Law §740

Section 740 prohibits employers from taking "retaliatory" action against an employee (including former employees and natural persons working as independent contractors), whether or not the employee is acting within the scope of his or her job duties, because the employee does any of the following:

ELIZABETH SETON CHILDREN'S CENTER

POLICY AND PROCEDURE

1. discloses or threatens to disclose to a supervisor or to a public body an activity, policy or practice of the employer that the employee reasonably believes is in violation of law, rule or regulation or that the employee reasonably believes poses a substantial and specific danger to the public health or safety;
2. provides information to, or testifies before, any public body conducting an investigation, hearing or inquiry into any such activity, policy or practice by such employer; or
3. objects to, or refuses to participate in, any such activity, policy or practice.

The employee's disclosure will only be protected if the employee first made a good faith effort to notify his or her employer by bringing up the matter with a supervisor and giving the employer a reasonable opportunity to correct the alleged violation. However, such employer notification is not required where:

- there is an imminent and serious danger to the public health or safety;
- the employee reasonably believes that reporting to the supervisor would result in a destruction of evidence or other concealment of the activity, policy or practice;
- such activity, policy or practice could reasonably be expected to lead to endangering the welfare of a minor;
- the employee reasonably believes that reporting to the supervisor would result in physical harm to the employee or any other person; or
- the employee reasonably believes that the supervisor is already aware of the activity, policy or practice and will not correct it.

Under Section 740, "retaliatory action" is defined to mean an adverse action taken by an employer or his or her agent to discharge, threaten, penalize, or in any other manner discriminate against any employee or former employee exercising his or her rights under Section 740. This includes: (i) adverse employment actions or threats to take such adverse employment actions against an employee in the terms of conditions of employment (including but not limited to discharge, suspension, or demotion); (ii) actions or threats to take such actions that would adversely impact a former employee's current or future employment; or (iii) threatening to contact or contacting United States immigration authorities or otherwise reporting or threatening to report an employee's suspected citizenship or immigration status or the suspected citizenship or immigration status of an employee's family or household member.

If an employer takes a retaliatory action against the employee, the employee may bring a civil action within two years after the alleged retaliatory action was taken. The parties to such an action are entitled to a jury trial. A court may order: an injunction to restrain continued violation of the law; the reinstatement of the employee to the same position held before the retaliatory action, or to an equivalent position, or "front pay;" the reinstatement of full fringe benefits and seniority rights; the compensation for lost wages, benefits and other remuneration; the payment by the employer of reasonable costs, disbursements and attorneys’ fees; a civil penalty not to exceed $10,000; and/or the payment by the employer of punitive damages, if the violation was willful, malicious or wanton.

D. New York Labor Law §741

Section 741 prohibits certain defined health care employers from taking “retaliatory action” against an employee because the employee does any of the following:

1. discloses or threatens to disclose to a supervisor, to a public body, to a news media outlet, or to a social media forum available to the public at large, an activity, policy or practice of the employer or agent that the employee, in good faith, reasonably believes constitutes improper quality of patient care or improper quality of workplace safety; or
2. objects to, or refuses to participate in, any activity, policy or practice of the employer or agent that the employee, in good faith, reasonably believes constitutes improper quality of patient care or improper quality of workplace safety.

Section 741 defines “retaliatory action” to mean the discharge, suspension, demotion, penalization or discrimination against an employee, or other adverse employment action taken against an employee in the terms and conditions of employment.

Similar to Section 740, an employee will not be protected under Section 741 unless the employee has brought the improper quality of patient care or improper quality of workplace safety to the attention of a supervisor and has given the employer a reasonable opportunity to correct the activity, policy or practice. Also similar to Section 740, notice to the employer is not required where it presents an imminent threat to public health or safety or to the health of a specific patient or specific health care employee and the employee reasonably believes in good faith that reporting to a supervisor would not result in corrective action.

The same relief and enforcement provided for under Labor Law Section 740 (described above) are applicable to retaliatory actions under Section 741.
